

Continuing Professional Development Workshop
Working Therapeutically with Children in an Educational Setting
Workshop held online

Led by: Michelle Bowman, QTS, Wealden Diploma in TA Psychotherapy

Saturday 18 July 2020 (half day 09.30-12.30)

Gradually, more and more schools are seeing the benefits of employing counsellors to work with their students. This is a wonderful opportunity for children to access a safe place to talk, for early intervention to take place and for mental health to be a priority. However, working as a school counsellor can be extremely challenging and can raise some very tricky and sensitive issues which can be hard to navigate. This is a one day workshop for people interested in or currently working in a school or other educational setting. During the day, we will explore, from a TA perspective, how the education system itself forms a significant part of a child's cultural script. We will also explore the complexities of working within a school setting, considering sensitive issues such as how to work ethically within school policies, how to sensitively and effectively handle child protection disclosures and how to manage a school's agenda for counselling, remaining mindful of how all of the above may impact on the therapeutic relationships with your clients.

About the Workshop leader

Michelle worked as a secondary school and sixth form teacher for 10 years. Following her training in Transactional Analysis, she began working in a Sixth Form College offering Psychotherapy to students up to the age of 19. Michelle has a particular interest and extensive experience working with teenagers and young adults both within an educational setting and in her private practice. She is currently working towards her CTA examination.
